Who is the Insurer?

Lloyd's is the world's best known, but probably least understood insurance brand. This is because Lloyd's is not an insurance company but a society of members, both corporate and individual, who underwrite in syndicates on whose behalf professional underwriters accept risk. The risks posed to insurers arise from brokers and intermediaries worldwide. Together, the underwriting syndicates at Lloyd's are one of the largest commercial insurers in the world and a leading re-insurer. The market structure encourages innovation, speed and better value, making it attractive to policyholders and participants alike. Lloyd's covers the most complex and specialized risks in the world, from oilrigs to celebrity body parts, from major airlines to the world's biggest banks and sporting events. Insurance is determined by its members, who provide the financial support which acts as collateral to ensure that the policyholder's claims are paid promptly.
